

To: Press[Press@epa.gov]
From: eat_more_kale@hushmail.com
Sent: Thur 8/13/2015 5:19:24 AM
Subject: ALLEGED EPA corruption---- Klckback schemes with Clean up Contractors---builders--real estate purchases---Martin knows ALL ABOUT IT!a

<http://www.silvertonstandard.com/news.php?id=847>

Link: Yes, that letter to the editor about the EPA was published
From Silverton Standard, the place where you can write!
Posted on August 12 2015, 1:17pm by Mark Esper in Local News category

Yes this letter was published in the July 30, 2015 edition of the Silverton Standard.

-Mark Esper, editor and publisher.

Have thoughts or an opinion on this story? Post it here ... Log In | Create Account

Comments (3)

EPA whistleblower on August 12 2015, 3:33pm

The EPA is a long history of environmental "false flag" operations. The Animas creek toxic waste release was a planned and coordinated event to allow Obama to move into Colorado with billions of dollars of federal cleanup funds. I have no doubt that the highest levels of Colorado government was notified of the release well before it happened...it is amazing that you libs in Colorado would allow that communist to do this to you.

chukalukabus on August 12 2015, 3:35pm

What do expect when your governing philosophy is based on "never let a good crisis go to waste." No crisis on hand to grab power? Create one.

Desmond McGrath on August 12 2015, 11:53pm

Dave Taylor was right on the money with his article; however he should have called it a Superfund Reichstag. The mysterious fire that was blamed on the communists and used by the Nazis as the rallying cry to consolidate control. Douglas Reed happened to be driving by when the fire started and wrote about it in "The Burning of the Reichstag" – 1934. It should be obvious to anyone with a modicum of common sense that EPA was deliberately creating a virus and antidote in the same laboratory. While my Engineering Degree was in Petroleum Engineering, my earlier pre-degree work included soils and concrete testing plus the inspection of earthenware dams and grout curtains for maintaining watertight integrity. It should not be forgotten that the EPA has had its own scandal with private email addresses (like Hillary and Benghazi), named for the previous heads dog. Likewise do not forget the EPA's sue and settle scheme for years where court actions by watermelon environmentalists are settled out of court for huge sums of taxpayer money to pay off the activists for protesting and enabling to EPA to increase in size, budget and manpower to cover the alleged infractions, another series of viruses and antidotes concocted in the same laboratory.

And to think that the EPA wants to control every ditch in America; the next thing this Gaia Gestapo will be arming all their field agents against those who oppose their draconian agenda. That will be the Blitzkrieg. These are not isolated incidents but a long term agenda like the shutting down of the irrigation in California destroying thousands or acres of irrigated farmland in favor of the delta smelt. I have traveled the Durango and Silverton Railway and am planning a return trip on motorcycle next summer, traveling along much of the route that the contaminated water is now flowing; it is indeed a shame that the EPA should be so callous and power hungry to stage such an event for its own benefit.

When the Nazis were beaten in WWII there was a concerted de-Nazification campaign to remove members of the Nazi Party from all levels of Government right down to the municipal level. There needs to be a similar cleaning of the house in the EPA to eliminate the hard left Watermelons and replace them with those who will take a more balanced approach to preserving the environment, balancing economics, environmental impact with the needs of local communities like Silverton and others that rely on this waterway and not make places like Silverton the whipping posts for implementing Agenda 21.

Desmond McGrath

Reporting from Singapore

<http://www.renewamerica.com/columns/mcgrath>

Yes, that letter to the editor about the EPA was published
From Silverton Standard, the place where you can write!
Posted on August 12 2015, 1:17pm by Mark Esper in Local News category

Yes this letter was published in the July 30, 2015 edition of the Silverton Standard.

-Mark Esper, editor and publisher.

Have thoughts or an opinion on this story? Post it here ... Log In | Create Account
Comments (3)

EPA whistleblower on August 12 2015, 3:33pm

The EPA is a long history of environmental "false flag" operations. The Animas creek toxic waste release was a planned and coordinated event to allow Obama to move into Colorado with billions of dollars of federal cleanup funds. I have no doubt that the highest levels of Colorado government was notified of the release well before it happened...it is amazing that you libs in Colorado would allow that communist to do this to you.

chukalukabus on August 12 2015, 3:35pm

What do expect when your governing philosophy is based on "never let a good crisis go to waste." No crisis on hand to grab power? Create one.

Desmond McGrath on August 12 2015, 11:53pm

Dave Taylor was right on the money with his article; however he should have called it a Superfund Reichstag. The mysterious fire that was blamed on the communists and used by the Nazis as the rallying cry to consolidate control. Douglas Reed happened to be driving by when the fire started and wrote about it in "The Burning of the Reichstag" – 1934. It should be obvious to anyone with a modicum of common sense that EPA was deliberately creating a virus and antidote in the same laboratory. While my Engineering Degree was in Petroleum Engineering, my earlier pre-degree work included soils and concrete testing plus the inspection of earthenware dams and grout curtains for maintaining watertight integrity. It should not be forgotten that the EPA has had its own scandal with private email addresses (like Hillary and Benghazi), named for the previous heads dog. Likewise do not forget the EPA's sue and settle scheme for years where court actions by watermelon environmentalists are settled out of court for huge sums of taxpayer money to pay off the activists for protesting and enabling to EPA to increase in size, budget and manpower to cover the alleged infractions, another series of viruses and antidotes concocted in the same laboratory.

And to think that the EPA wants to control every ditch in America; the next thing this Gaia Gestapo will be arming all their field agents against those who oppose their draconian agenda. That will be the Blitzkrieg. These are not isolated incidents but a long term agenda like the shutting down of the irrigation in California destroying thousands or acres of irrigated farmland in favor of the delta smelt. I have traveled the Durango and Silverton Railway and am planning a return trip on motorcycle next summer, traveling along much of the route that the contaminated water is now flowing; it is indeed a shame that the EPA should be so callous and power hungry to stage such an event for its own benefit.

When the Nazis were beaten in WWII there was a concerted de-Nazification campaign to remove members of the Nazi Party from all levels of Government right down to the municipal level. There needs to be a similar cleaning of the house in the EPA to eliminate the hard left Watermelons and replace them with those who will take a more balanced approach to preserving the environment, balancing economics, environmental impact with the needs of local communities like Silverton and others that rely on this waterway and not make places like Silverton the whipping posts for implementing Agenda 21.

Desmond McGrath

Reporting from Singapore

<http://www.renewamerica.com/columns/mcgrath>

Sent using Hushmail